“ *Dear Clyde and Sherri,
I know it has been years since we all saw each other, but I always have you all in my heart.. The news hit Dakota, Jess,& I hard... We were reminiscing of how the kids would be wrestling and Janie would tell them to stop.. And how we would visit your house and the kids would all play in your backyard.. Many hugs full of warmth are sent to you.. We sent a balloon up to Chad and Janie also..*

“ Chad fit into our weird and random family like he was one of our own. From the strange noises and gestures we all laughed about , like a secret language that outsiders thought was weird. The funny birthday singing, nicknames, practical jokes, too many to list that most people wouldn't understand..your laugh was contagious. Your many hairstyles and shoes, new hobbies and obsessions. But underneath the many Chads that came and went, the unchanging essence of who you are is what will always remain.

“ I remember when you first started working at the Tool, you worked with me in receiving. It was different for me because I had never had anyone work with me. But you made it so much fun everyday, we laughed all the time. You would bring your skateboard in and ride it at lunch, even jumped over me. Those were good times. I watched you grow into the outstanding man that you became. I will sure miss seeing you and talking to you. Love you, my friend.

“ Chad, to say you were "like a son to me" does not do justice. I considered you my son, just as much as my children considered you a best friend and brother. And sometimes even occasionally Dad to " the babies " ,whom even at 15 we all still call "the babies "...we all shared so much :laughter and tears. Births and deaths. Good times and bad times. And it is these memories and shared experiences that we will hold close to us as we try to come to terms with this heartbreak and unimaginable loss. The deep grief that we are all experiencing is a testimony of the deep bond and love we had and still have for you. My heart goes out to everyone affected by the loss of Chad, especially Sheri, Clyde, and his siblings and not lastly, Nicole. From my family to yours, thank you for the gift of your son.. we love you guys!

“ I have known Chad since 1999 when I moved Delhi we went to Delhi Middle School & Oak Hills High School . When I met him he always had his skateboard with him. He would always try to get me to skate on it. I tried but always fell off he was good at it tho. He always made me laugh & was so goofy. He always had the brightest smile & so caring & fun. He was one of my bestfriends. I cant believe Chad is in Heaven & with God. I am sorry for loss of Chad! He was a Great Person! Prayers!

“ Highschool was hard. Let alone transferring into a highschool 2 months into junior year. Chad was in my chemistry class. We were paired up as lab partners and he said... so, your name is Breezy... is your last name McWilliams? I was like no... it's Redden. He continued... well... it sounds better as McWilliams. For years, I was McWilliams. We were usually in the same circle of friends... him becoming a very dear friend to my little sister and I considered him a friend too. He was always being hilarious...and That's how I'll always remember him.

“ In utter disbelief... You were always the same guy when I'd see you. Always quick with a smile and a quick joke. Even though we didn't get a lot of time together outside of work you always were a breath of fresh air when I saw you. I remember just a few months ago we were prepping for a work project and you came to my building early and posted up at my desk... Shared with me about your diabetes which blew me away. Especially since you and I had a similar experience when someone mentioned it before both of our diagnoses. I'll never forget playing a show in Northside and turned around for a drink of water to find you right outside with your dog. You flashed that million dollar smile, waved, and went on with your walk. My deepest condolences to all of the family and everyone who knew, loved, and cared for this great man (which is pretty much everyone who knew him). Much love to you and rest easy, Good Brother.

“ The first night I met Chad, I met Nicole, and I instantly gained two new best friends. From that day on, Cole and I became SameName. And Chad was blessed with the name Chearls. One memory is impossible to share with almost 10 years of unforgettable, hilarious, and forever cherished memories. To this day I can't say Chad without saying Cole. And out of all the memories, I can't thank you enough for letting me be a part of your special day. Hands down the best wedding - Thunderstruck was no joke. Chad, you definitely knew how to put a smile on everyone's face. Your energy pulled everyone toward you. Put you and Nate in a room, and all you heard was "CHEA". All the Sunday fundays, Bengals games, Skyline times, going kayaking for your first time – lmao, and the unlimited amounts of beer pong that I thank you so much for making those times so memorable. Forever grateful for your friendship. Fly high, Chad. ♡

“ I met Chad and Nicole at a truck show several years ago through mutual friends. Right away it felt like I've known both of them my entire life. Every time I was around him, he was always laughing and having a good time. I remember back in the fall of 2016, he said he wanted to go to this huge show in Vegas with a group of us, like we do every year. You have to work in the industry to get in, and I do some photography work, so I get in as media. So I always say a bunch of my friends work for me so I can get them in. I lied and said he was one of my contributing photographers for one of my websites. I had to add him to my website and create fake business cards and everything. And just like I thought, he got approved. Then a week or two later, he said he couldn't afford to go because he came home to his couch that was totally destroyed by his dog, so he had to spend the Vegas money on new furniture. I was sad when he said he couldn't go, cuz I knew he'd be the life of the party and he'd be down for whatever. Then at the last minute, he decided to go, and it was a crazy good time like I expected. One day on the trip, it was just him and I walking down the Vegas strip heading towards the show. We shared stories about work, relationships, travels, and life in general, over a couple tall cold beverages. I love having deep conversations with friends, and I'm glad I was able to do that with him. You'll definitely be missed by so many people man.

“ I can't share just one memory.. you were my life for almost 12 years. I don't even know where to begin... The late night drives around town just talking each other's heads off with. no real destination, just to be with each other..watching you sing to screamo music and head banging always looking over at me to make sure I was laughing. Which you did constantly.. you always knew how to make me laugh. Summer days at Philipps swim club watching you do gainer after gainer. Driving to Larosas in the middle of that bad ice storm because we were a bunch of fatties. You carrying me up and down the stairs at my moms after my knee surgery any time I had to pee. You coming to my rescue any time my tires blew.. which seemed to be every freaking winter. You walking to my house from Target at 6 in the morning from your night shift just to walk me to school in the morning. Putting on Toy Story for you anytime you were sick. Sleeping in the hospital bed with you when you found out you were diabetic. The trip to Chicago I surprised you with for your birthday to watch your fav team the Blackhawks get their butts whooped by the blue jackets.. you never stopped thanking me for that. Any time I was upset or mad at you, you'd whisper BBQ sauce in my ear and for some weird reason.. it worked every time. I will never ever forget that smile or that adorable laugh you'd do when you found something so funny you couldn't breathe. I never thought in a million years I'd ever have to this but I will always hold a place in my heart for you Chad. Always and for ever.

Love your lil guy

“ The first bar I ever went to was with the usual weekend group . In Chad fashion, he planned the evening for everyone and we went to Northside (of course). It was so much fun but he made sure to look out for us and not doing anything really dumb. He wanted everyone to have a good time and made sure we did even with the obnoxious Black X's on or hands!

I was blessed to have such an outstanding and exemplary person in my life, he influenced my life in a myriad of ways. We were inseparable as children. We did everything together, along with his brothers Brandon and Timmy. You will be missed greatly, Chad. May you Rest in Peace... you deserve that at the very least. Thank you for being my friend.

“ Me and chad known each other all our lives . There was never a dull moment with this guy . When he smiled it literally lit a room and we had plenty of laughs with each other. They say in your life time you can count your real friends on one hand and he definitely was one of them and will always love him . When we was younger he showed me the ropes with different things and always looked out for me . People grow older and grow apart and wish I could go back and talk to him much more and see him smile even just one more time . I'm sure chad is looking down on all the love everyone is showing towards him and has the biggest smile on his face .until we meet again my friend keep me a spot up there .

“ You will be missed by SO many people Chad! I will never forget the time after we were all done at prom dinner and I went to get in the car and my dress zipper busted out and you told me i ate way too much but made sure I went and got one of Nicole's dresses to wear! I thought it was hilarious when you would play air piano during a song, knowing every lyric to Lil Wayne and not caring what people thought! I sat at the end of my drive way just hoping no one would get hurt.. if I recall correctly my dad said “hey let me go grab a beer before you do that”.. Chad was such a nice guy, and I'm so deeply sorry for your loss.. I'm sending each of you nothing but love and strength.. “ When I think of chad I think of Nicole. I think of when we all would go to Ollie’s and pulling all nighters because that’s what good girlfriends do right? I remember his sweaty hair that he hated washing. I remember his goofy walk while his head dopped with it. I never realized how happy chad truly was all the time until thinking back with all the memories..He was always smiling or making a joke. I remember how happy he was getting that red convertible and going on double dates listening to him sing songs to Nicole while we road around. I remember Brandon yelling at him all the damn time to take a shower because chad HATED taking showers because he liked his hair greasy lol. Nicole do you remember drawing on those wooden boards? 😂 To mad hatter, the 80s party that he was so pumped about, Halloween parties that him and colely absolutely loved. Taking couple pictures up in mt. Adams where he loved to just sit there for hours. I will never forget how incredibly happy he was on his wedding day and how grown up he looked. From damn near 16 living out of his honda to getting married and having a career that honestly I couldn’t believe he still had lol. Chad was funny, sensitive, and secretly so damn caring. Him and Brandon fought every other damn week while me and Nicole had to suffer the consequences until they made up. Chad was hardheaded but had a heart of gold. I have too many damn memories that I keep jumping from one to another and the only thing that stays on my mind is the love Nicole and chad had and I’m sure 90% of us all envied. I hope you are at peace chad.. I know you had some demons at time in that head of yours and I truly hope you are looking down now helping others. Especially your family and the powers 💜

“ Every time I saw Chad I would briefly think of Joop cologne, because Nicole told me that Chad wore it and thought it smelled terrible. Just from the name Joop I thought it was cheap stuff. But recently I found that Joop is quite expensive. Also I love how proud he was that he got ordained to marry us on our wedding day. He thought he was reverend Chad. I do think he did exercise this and married some others at some point. I hate seeing what this is doing to Nicole, her parents, her brothers, and everyone else for that matter. It's also hard on me as I also feel in shock, lost and empty. I'll always miss Chad and the things that he did to touch our lives while he was with us.

I told DAvid he had to be home by midnight but Chad said 2:00 and he tried using that beautiful smile on me to get me to change it to 2. I did change the time to 12:30 but we know David didn't come home until 2:30. I was so mad at DAvid but I look back on that now and cherish that night.
