“ We had nice times spending Friday afternoons with the Mall lunch gang. There were laughs, discussions, jokes, meeting with other friends of some one at the table, and generally good fellowship. It was not the same without Walt and Marie. We made observations of the people on the mall, talked with workers at the mall, including the servers in the business's of the food court, and met new people that came on a regular basis to mall walk. Of course occasionally we talked politics, but not much. It was a good group to socialize with. We miss those times with Walt and Marie. God bless you Walt, the last couple hears had not been easy for you.
